

SKIN TROUBLE ON FACE TWO MONTHS

Started With Little Pimples. At Night Would Burn. Used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. Now Entirely Well.

61 Mosher St., Holyoke, Mass.—"The eruption on my face started with little pimples. I suffered for a couple of months. At night when I would go to bed the pimples would start to burn and I had to get up and wash my face to cool it off for a while."

"I tried Soap and Ointment and they weren't a bit satisfactory. I then sent for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and the pimples started to disappear. I bought some Cuticura Soap and Ointment and now I am entirely well." (Signed) Miss Anna Chonard, Sept. 23, 1914.

The delicate yet effective super-emollient properties, derived from Cuticura Ointment, render Cuticura Soap most valuable in overcoming a tendency to disfigure eruptions and promoting a normal condition of skin and hair health.

Lathrop Missionary Society Resumes Meetings—Rev. William M. Zumbro to Preach at First Church.

The first meeting, since early summer of the Lathrop-Memorial Foreign Missionary Society of the First Congregational church, held Wednesday afternoon, called together 25 members. The president, Miss Susan C. Hyde, spoke of the Northfield conference and of Dr. Raynolds. Mention was made of the medical expedition to China, the expenses of which are borne by the Rockefeller foundation, which will cooperate with missionary institutions furnishing financial assistance where it can be used advantageously, so that China's death rate, now the largest among the nations, may be reduced.

The new book to be studied, The King's Highway, promises to be full of interest. The opening chapter told of Egypt and of the work of the Freezing and English churches in that country. Schools and hospitals have been founded, and the Coptic church established a mission at Assuan. The service closed with Queen Wilhelmina's prayer for peace.

Westerly Visitors On Governor's Day

Attractions at Kingston Fair Enjoyed by Big Crowd—Speeches Heard by Attentive Auditors—Good Racing Card—Local Interest in Various Exhibits.

Governor's day was some large day at the big fair of the Washington County Agricultural society at Kingston, with fully 15,000 in attendance each perishing at the rate of a pint a minute. The record for hot fair weather was reached and the heat of the day was reached by reason of the excessive heat sent from the rays of a sizzling sun. Some talked of special attractions at the fair, but all talked of the excessive heat of September weather. Sure, Governor Beekman was there and was the center of attraction, and every politician in the state, great and small, were there, too; so much so that the management is seriously considering the designation of the third day of the fair from Governor's day to Politicians' day. Westerly sent a big crowd to the fair on Wednesday, but the village was almost depopulated on Thursday, as nearly everybody went to the fair. As soon as the governor and his official party arrived on the grounds there was a parade of the premium horses and cattle around the track, and it was a feature of the day's proceedings, sharing with the varied features of the big midway, from the big stand where blankets are disposed of by chance, with white mice drawing the winning tickets, down to the tent at the other end where a trio of females gyrate to the music of a bass drum and a flute by a duo of Turkish polemakers. The greater part of the crowd was attracted to the midway, except, of course, when the horse races were on, with vaudeville acts between heats.

The usual escort of the governor and party from the railway station to the fair grounds by the band and executive committee of the fair society was omitted by reason of the excessive heat, and the means of transport was taken direct to Hazard hall in automobiles. Rowland Hazard, president of the agricultural society, delivered his annual address, and after speaking directly of the fair and its development, he made a strong plea for preparedness. He sounded warning against Germany and declared probably that there were as complete maps of Narragansett bay in the possession of the German government as there are in this country, and that German spies were at work in Washington county, and that the names of people already in the possession of Germans.

United States Senator LeBaron B. Colt in his speech said that arbitration was the only way to avoid war. He told of recent treaties made by the United States with Great Britain and other countries, and said that while they did not act in anger against war, still they would postpone the declaration of war until a commission chosen by the two nations had opportunity to thoroughly investigate the matter in dispute. Governor Beekman in his address lauded the fair as a good thing for the farmer, and commended the means of short historical sketch of the society. He said Rhode Island should be an agricultural as well as a manufacturing state.

After luncheon, the official party were given place in the grandstand and witnessed the light harness racing. There were two events on the racing card for Thursday afternoon. Seven horses started in the race for the Roger Williams Driving club stake of $500 in the 2 1/2 mile class. The race and first money was won easily in three straight heats by the chestnut horse James S. Orr. The other event was the 2 1/2 mile class pace, with three starters. While this race was won in three straight heats by Fanny D., the horses were bunched from start to finish, and it was anybody's race down to the last second. The summer season of the 2 1/2 mile class, purse $500: James S. Fairly Fair Flowerets.

In the grange parade the first prize went to Exeter, second to Westerly, third to Slocum and fourth to Quonochontaug. The Westerly float was a large farm wagon, decorated with cornucopias, flowers and produce, and drawn by three pairs of oxen. George L. Stillman of Westerly, the Dahlia King, was awarded first prize for bouquets, a cash prize, a show and fancy, decorative and peony dahlias.

The exhibit of the inland fish commissioners included eggs, lobsters, of which carried over 80,000 neatly packed eggs. In this display were aquariums of salt and fresh water fish of an edible and curio nature. This is one of the most interesting exhibits at the fair.

The fair management did their best to prevent the sale of intoxicating liquors on the grounds, and did fairly well, but there was just a little of that which was forbidden procurable.

John A. Allen of Peacedale, secretary and treasurer of the association, was overcome with heat Thursday morning. He was attended by Dr. Gardner of Wakefield. Following the liquor raid on Wednesday there were two on Thursday. In automobiles from which William J. Coughlan was selling sweaters two cases of beer and two dozen quart bottles of whiskey were seized, and a two quart bottle of whiskey and a whiskey glass were taken from the Harry Hicks booth in the midway.

Local Lacerations.

The final concert for the season in Wilcox park was rendered Thursday evening by the Westerly band, Charles O. Gavitt leader.

At the annual meeting of the Rhode Island grand lodge, Order Sons of St. George, John T. Parker of Westerly was elected grand president.

These jurors have been summoned from Westerly for the September term of the superior court for Washington county, which convenes at Kingston Monday: Charles D. Havens, Orville M. Randolph, Everett H. Nash, Charles H. Leonard, James E. Kenney, Thomas P. Nichols, Oscar H. Teft, George E. Cottrell, Charles E. Champlin, Walter L. Francis, Benjamin Powers, Thomas T. Picard, Henry W. Gavitt, petit jury.

MYSTIC

Health Officer Dr. C. F. Congdon Prepares Comprehensive Report—Change in Trolley Layout—Cards at Country Club.

The seventh annual report of Town Health Officer Dr. C. F. Congdon of Mystic of the town of Stonington will soon be available in pamphlet form, together with the annual report of the selectmen and other officials. In the report of Dr. Congdon he refers to the measles cases in Pawcatuck, of which there were 25 among the pupils of the West Broad street school, and several more among adults in the east end of town, between April and July. There was only one death.

Of diphtheria, there were 17 cases in the town, most of them being in Pawcatuck, resulting in three deaths. There were other cases of this disease in other parts of the town, but most of these were mild. But one more death resulted. Whooping cough cases were there were 25 among the pupils of the West Broad street school, and several more among adults in the east end of town, between April and July. There was only one death.

There were three cases of typhoid fever during the year, one in Pawcatuck, one in Old Mystic, and one in Mystic. The first two died. The origin of the disease could not be traced and the three persons were in no way connected.

Over 100 visits have been made to the schools of the town by the health officer during the year and many cases of contagious disease have been located and thus prevented from spreading.

In speaking of vaccination, Dr. Congdon says that it is still neglected among the school children; he apprehends that only an epidemic of the disease will overcome the indifference and prejudice toward vaccination.

An analysis of the drinking water of the different schools showed that the water at Taugwank, Wheeler, Quilam, and lower Pawcatuck schools was polluted and unsafe to drink.

Special precautions for safeguarding the health of the school children will continue during the coming year. Dr. Congdon finds the water supplied by the Mystic Water company to be all right.

Stonington home has always been found during several examinations to be in a sanitary condition.

New Trolley Layout.

The track gang of the Groton and Stonington railroad under the direction of Foreman Perkins is installing new rails for the new layout around the telephone exchange and the station to the Denison burying ground. The trolleys will leave Washington street and Denison avenue and will be running over the new section in about two weeks.

Real Estate Sale.

Anthony Maruties has sold for Samuel Dennis of Providence the property on the west side of the river known as the Mitchell place to Lizziano Gracomo. The place comprises about two acres of land, with building, and was formerly the home of Mr. Dennis.

Bridge at Country Club.
